from local merchants and manufacturers.

Mrs. Edna J. Evans, of Los Angeles, who is to conduct the *chami, is a believer in the 'Buy-at-home' movement and never loses an opportunity to support home trade. In El Paro size will find an unusually fertile field for assection of furnishings and materials. Mrs. Evans tests the merits of every article she handles in her demonstrations; she weighs conveniences and durability and demands the best brand of ingredients that is to be procured. When perfectly satisfied that she has ber money's worth in both quality and quantity, Mrs. Evans proceeds with her demonstration. The class then enjoys experiments by an expert.

Benefits Are Many.

Henefits are Many.

The benefits accruing to a community and to a city in such a lecture course as Mrs. Evans will give are manifold. Divorces would be lens frequent if wives understood the value of scientific proparation and selection of food, the contends.
